

Sensory Integration and Beyond: Power Tools for Treating Children

INTRO
COURSE

Description:

This course will address treatment approaches that clinical experience has shown produce more progress in a shorter amount of time than traditional methods. In many cases it is the combination of treatment strategies that enhances the effectiveness of each. This course provides an overview of the "power tool" strategies most effective for the child with modulation, postural, motor and/or learning and behavioral problems. Join us and discover how the integration of a variety of strategies results in significant, measurable changes. Treatment approaches will include: new perspectives on SI theory and practice, CranioSacral therapy applications, metabolic considerations, modulation strategies; i.e. intensity concepts for sensory diet, therapeutic uses of music, rhythm and suck/swallow/breathe functions.

While some of the techniques discussed can be immediately put to use, prior experience with traditional sensory integration principles and practice will make application of these advanced approaches more meaningful, and the complex nature of integrating them with current practice more successful. Basic sensory integration principles will not be covered in this course.

Suggested Audience: OTs, PTs & SLPs

This workshop is offered for 1.3 AOTA CEUs (Performance Skills, Intervention and Outcomes)

This course is offered for 1.3 ASHA CEUs (Introductory Level; Related Area)

2. Discuss how these approaches interact and/or support each other in comprehensive treatment of persons with sensory processing, modulation, motor, learning or autism spectrum disorders.
3. Demonstrate powerful treatment strategies for 3 or more of the approaches discussed.
4. Identify personal learning options that will enhance professional skills toward more efficient/effective treatment.
